Imagine a world without brands

What would you do?

(a)

Everything is a brand...

(b)

what is branding?

This is the transactional view of branding

It is a name, sign, term, symbol, sound or any combination of these to identify and differentiate an offering from one another

Brand is a;

- Marker
- Blanket
- File
- Psychological
- Magnet

branding is because consumers are helpless

Developing a brand is not just about putting your mark

...all what branding does is giving

Expectation of value experience

Why branding?

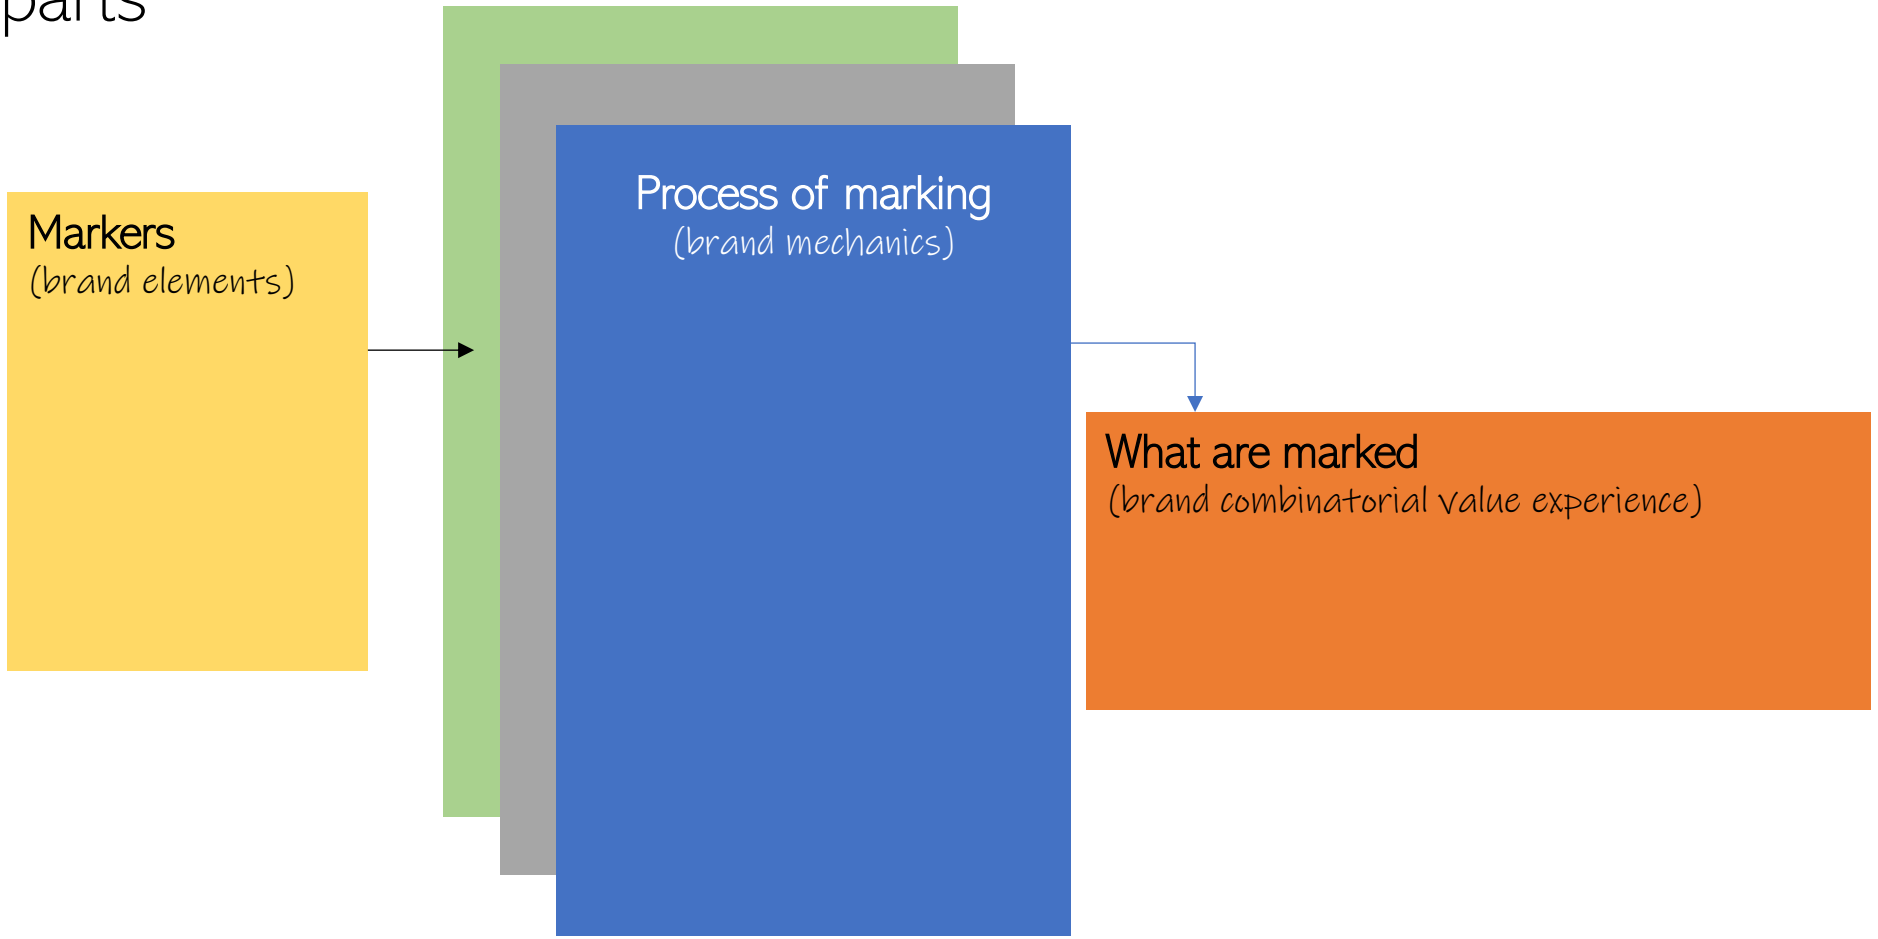

- For identifying a solution
- To differentiate a product from that of another
- To create expectations
  - Building attitudes
- To make assurance
  - Reduce risk to the customer
  - Increase loyalty
- To communicate positioning
- To build relationship
  - Customer make ties with brand generated experiences, thoughts and believes
  - Customer Relationships are only possible with brands
- Premium charges

- Construct Positioning Bullseye for Ubuntu 22.04.3 LTS

Branding is all about associations and how strong these associations will be in creating predispositions leading to desired response brand equity

- It is what the brand possesses
- Level of magnetism
- Level of ability to bring profits to the firms
- It is the asset value of a brand

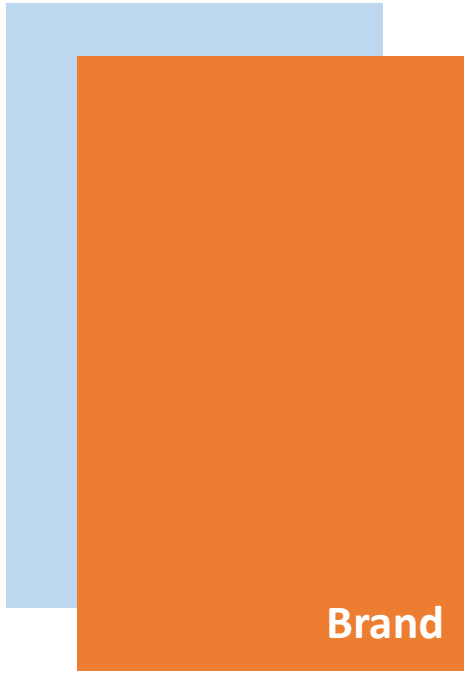

how to measure

Competitiveness

Customer Acquisition Rate
Market Share
Sales growth
ROI of Channels

Brand awareness

Customer opinions
Customer ratings
Surveys and focus groups

Financial Performance

Customer Lifetime Value (CLV)
Average transaction value
Price premium

Customer Preference

Level of customer agreement that the brand provides differentiated solution
Customer intention to pay
Emotional connection

Output based

Level of loyalty program adoption
Sales over promotions
Asset utilization over campaigns

Building Equity

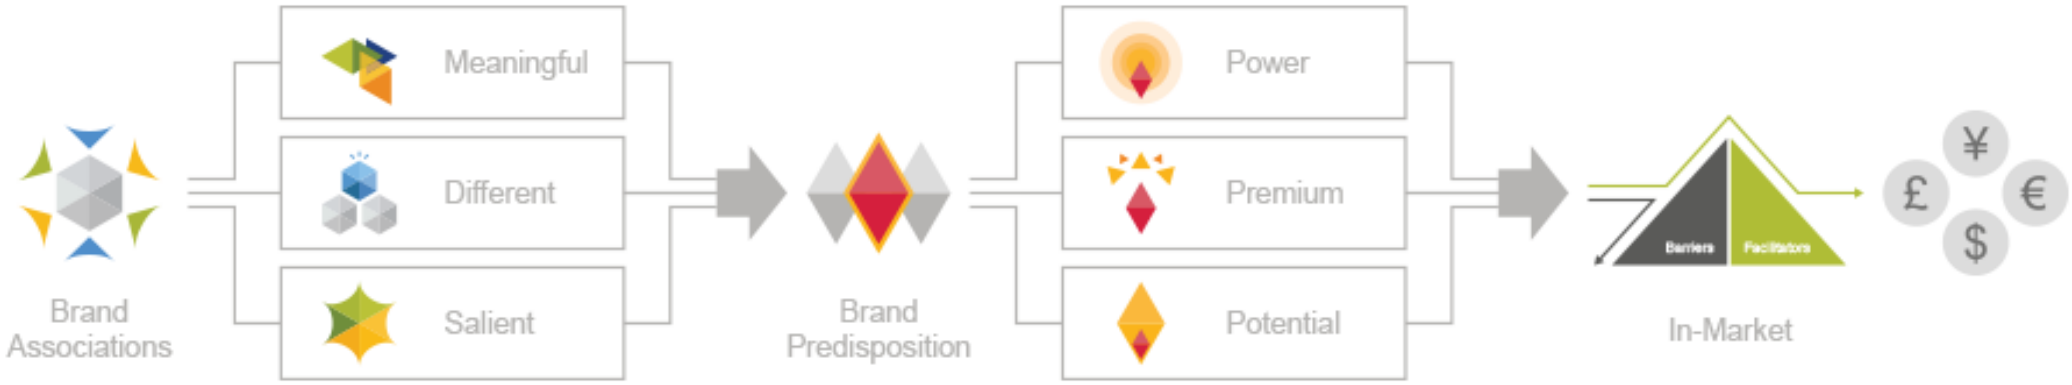

- How will the brand bring profits?

  Through meaningful differences, the brand would bring

Power → Volume share

Premium → Brand price index $\frac{Price_{Brand}}{Avg\ Category\ Price}$

Potential → Value share growth probability

What is Building a Brand

Branding creates associations

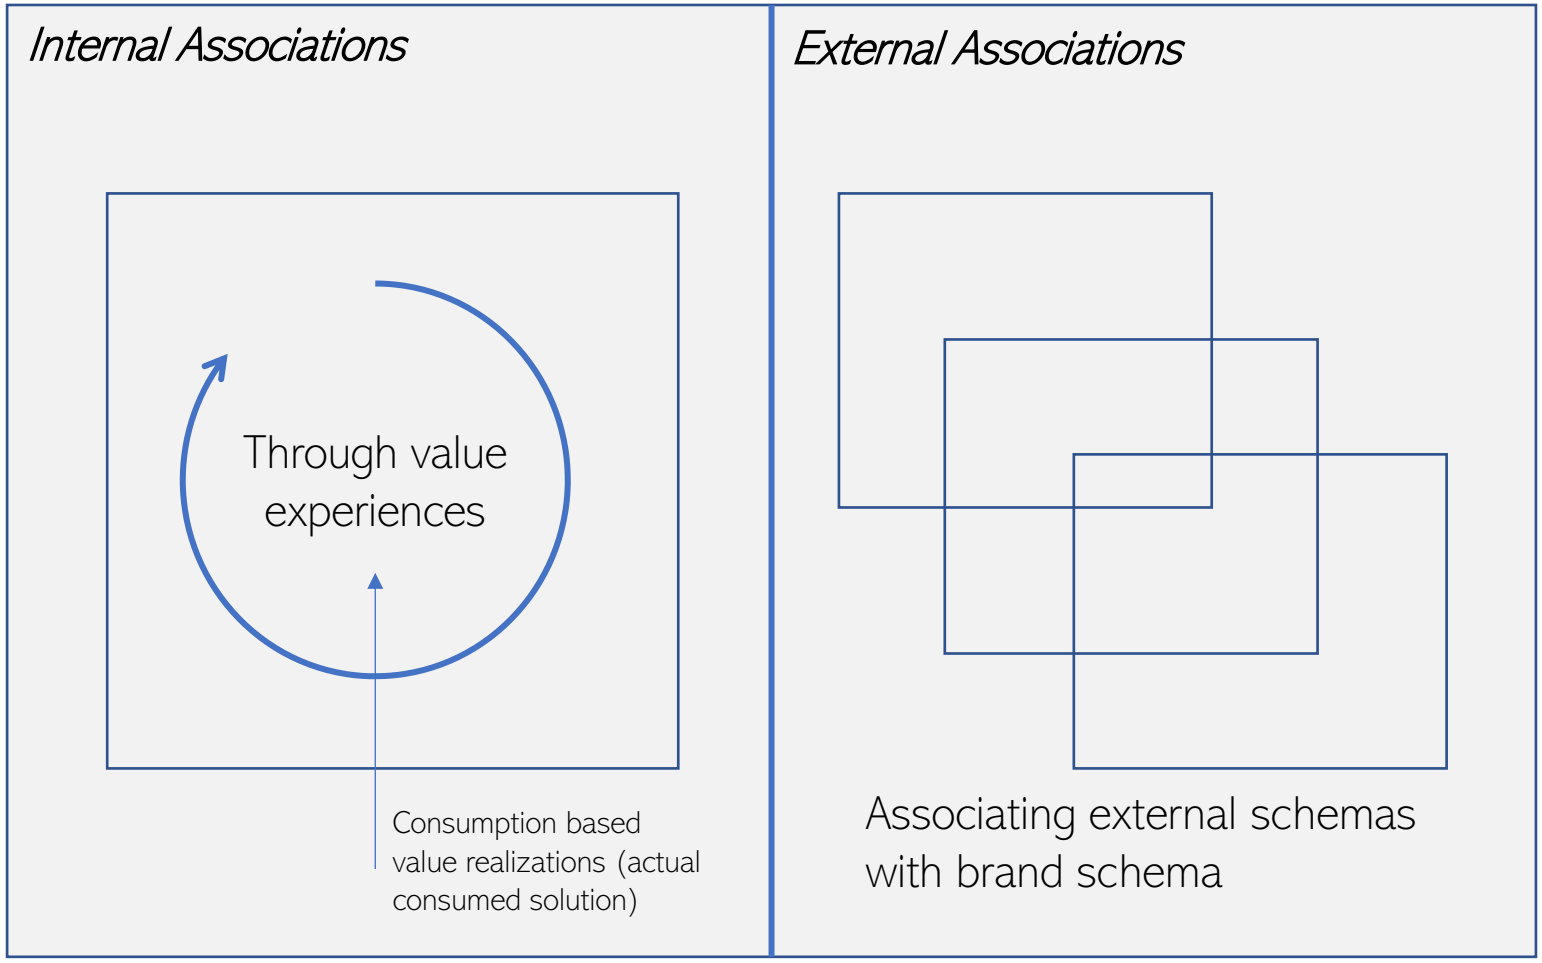

Product experiences (What do my customer get?) Interactions (What are my interaction with the customer?
Other products (whom will I be dealt with?)
Contexts (where/what will my customer be/do?)

To build a brand:

Build on these associations so the consumer will have a favorable predisposition

Building Brands Blocks

Brand Resonance Model

What to do?

- Be strong with Brand Elements
  - Name
  - Shapes
  - Slogans
  - Sounds
  - Colours
  - Font styles

When Choosing Brand Elements…

- Memorable
  - Should be memorable
  - No complicated words designs
- Meaningful
  - Well, better…but some are not so
- Likable
  - Should astatically appealing
- Distinguishable
  - Should not create confusing effects with existing associations

Leveraging Secondary Associations

- Other associated “things” with the brand
- Look for ways to use such associations to build the brand
  - E.g. Hakka and All-Blacks

Ingredient Branding

- Use brands within brands
  - E.g. Intel Inside
  - Energy Star
  - "Powered by …"

Associated absorption

- Use these ingredient branding to strengthen the trust and expectations

White Labeling and Private Labeling

- You sell a product in your name which is not yours.
- You as the company puts your brand name on a product that is not produced by you.
  - WL: Specifications given by the producer (though customizable).
  - PL: Specifications are entirely given by you. You have a design
- Can save time, money, and minimize risk.

Brand Narratives and Storytelling

- Brand is considered as a character in a story
- Stories are build on a setting
  - Time, place and context
- Value delivered in form of desired experiences are related
- Specific language, narrator, and metaphors are used to create desired associations

Lego Story

Brand Audit

- Checking the brand's performance and its contribution to the bottom line;
  - Value of a brand
  - Resource strength of a brand
  - Awareness
  - Related trends
  - Brand related attitudes
  - Perceptions
  - Brand management effort effectiveness

Brand Strategy

- Action plan of building the brand
  - Understand the target audience
  - Consider brand positioning (what your brand is about for the customers)
    - FOR, POP, and POD
    - Put them in Brand Positioning Bull's Eye
  - Decide on the associations to be created and develop tangibles (names, logos, taglines, etc)
  - Develop the communication / message elements
  - Develop communication channels
  - Develop communities

Remember: No primary elements or secondary associations can create a brand. The delivered value to the customer will…branding will capture such consumer experiences and store in consumers memory

No value = No brand
